American Products at the Paris Exposition.

A Paris letter to the Tribune says: In the heart of the American triangle the Pianos are arranged, one of the largest and best collections that the country has ever exported or exhibited. Artists of eminence make perpetual music here, and the quarter is always densely crowded. The superiority of our instruments is not questioned, even by the rival manufacturers of Paris, Vienna and Leipzig. Playel, Erard and Herz have far inferior displays, and find it difficult to attract the Litthoffs, Jaels and Liszts, of the continent to their plainer cabinet wares and feebler instruments. All our great firms are represented, and the contending keyes, in passages which all the world warbles, mingle their winds, as if the birds of the West, in choirs, had assembled here to sing. The spectators divide their enjoyment, now listening to some composer try his own latest music upon a Schomaker, a Chickering, or a Knabe; but the seven superb instruments of the Steinways allure the professional people, and here the best musical talent of Europe may be seen from morning till dark—Stephen Heller, Eugene Ketterer, W. Kruger, Alfred Jaell—grouped about the bird cages. The "overstrung" harp, as it is called, in the Steinway piano, has attracted the greatest interest here from its novelty and the sweetness and power which its superior vibration gives. The best piano makers in Europe have sought the privilege of sending their workmen to examine it; and professional artists compete to play upon it. It is very odd to note how, by our mechanical genius, we have so carried away the honors in the arts, and our department has the best music in the whole Exhibition. The grand Steinway was said by Rossini to resemble a nightingale cooing in a thunder storm.

A Duel and its Consequences.

An amusing duel took place near Havana, Cuba. It originated in a remark made by a man to his friend on seeing a lady coming out of church. The lady was unknown to the person making the remark, but happened to be the other's wife. A slap in the face was the consequence, and a challenge came soon after. This was accepted, and the seconds selected a place. The wife got wind of the affair and immediately took steps to prevent the dreaded catastrophe. Her first thought was to notify the police, but that might have given her husband the reputation of a coward, and she took a better method by going to the house of the other party, where she met his wife, and a plan was soon concocted between the feminines. On the morning appointed for the duel both husoands got up early; wives ditto. Husbands took carriages, and their wives—one armed with five children and the other with three—took other vehicles in waiting. When the two duelists arrived at the spot they were somewhat astonished on seeing the two other carriages drive up with their passengers, who coolly informed the men that they also had come to fight, so as to make it a complete family quarrel, each at the same time producing an empty purse and a package of baby linen as their arms and munitions of war. The little ones had pop-guns and firecrackers, and soon some indulged in a cry. After viewing the state of affairs, the bloodthirsty Benedicts made peace on the spot, and returned to Havana to celebrate the affair over a champagne dinner.

Curious Parisian Gossip About Stephens, the Fenian Leader.

A Paris correspondent of a Western journal furnishes the following:

James Stephens is living at No. 20 Romney street, at Montmartre, where he seems to be quite comfortable, having his wife and brother-in-law with him, which does not prevent him from complaining of his poverty.

A few days ago one of his countrymen, who had not a penny, came to solicit his aid. "I have not a dollar, my lad," replied he, "but come with me, perhaps I may procure some help for you." On the road they met a passer-by, whom Stephens declared to be an old acquaintance of his, and, leaving his helpless companion, he chatted for an instant with his "friend." "Here," said Stephens, returning to the Irishman, "here are five francs; this gentleman has lent me ten; it is all I have—let us share." This said, Stephens left his companion. The latter a short time after was near a carriage stand, and to his surprise saw Stephens engage one and get in. Our Irishman considered it odd that a man who had but five francs should engage a carriage at fifty sous an hour. He seated himself patiently near the carriage stand, and waited till either the carriage or Stephens should return. At the end of three hours the carriage returned. Stephens had paid for the three hours. Another fact still more serious, is that Stephens visits the English embassy in secret. What does he do there?

Capital Punishment in Japan.

The Japanese punish murder by decapitation; parricide and other such heinous crimes by crucifiction. A prisoner sentenced to death is taken to the place of execution, surrounded by the officers, and having hung around his neck a placard, giving his name, age and rank, with his crime and sentence. After his execution his head is left suspended in sight for three days, with the placard still hanging to it. Arson is punished by burning the criminal at the stake, yet, as enforced, this penalty does not bring a very painful death. The criminal is first kept on a very scanty allowance of food for some time. Then, before being taken out for execution, he is overfed on rich and highly spiced viands, till he becomes stupid and indifferent. He is fastened to the stake, and wood and light materials are heaped about him. These are lighted at the same moment in several different places, and the victim is smothered by the smoke as quickly as he could be strangled by a rope.

—The Toledo Blade thus illustrates one of the difficulties to be encountered by the Chivalry in securing the votes of their late chattels:

"A Rebel lawyer of Richmond, Virginia, in an attempt to win the suffrages of the colored voters of that vicinage, affectionately assured them, in a public speech, that he had a colored mammy when he was a child, and that he loved the colored people, as they must know. But he didn't tell them, nor was it necessary for the colored people to understand it, that, after a bad run of luck at faro, that very "mammy," so beloved, was sold by him to furnish the sinews of war for another buck at the tiger. They are laying it on too thick. The backs of the audience addressed by the Richmond lawyer have not yet had time to heal; and every one of them have either been on the auction block or seen his relatives there."

THE CASE OF JEFF. DAVIS.

SANFORD CONOVER AGAIN.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 6, 1867.

RECONSTRUCTION INJUNCTION—REPLY OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

In the Supreme Court, this afternoon, Attorney General Stanberry closed the argument on the Georgia and Mississippi injunction cases. He spoke as to the general principles involved, and denied, as heretofore, that these cases had any place in the Court. They were not within the jurisdiction of a Court of Equity, such as the Constitution provides. There was in them no basis of property on which relief could be given. Georgia and Mississippi, according to the bills filed, undertook to speak for all the people of those States. Where was the evidence of this fact? Besides, of the ten Southern States over which the reconstruction acts were to operate, only two were here. It was not known to the country that the remaining States were dissatisfied, for they had not presented any bill of grievances. The law gave a citizen a right to vindicate himself, and could do this as successfully as a State could for him. Counsel on the other side had invoked the Court to save their liberties from destruction, to preserve the integrity of the States on whose behalf they appeared. But, said the Attorney General, there was no inherent power for that purpose in this Court, for Congress might so act as to destroy the efficiency of the Court by impeaching the Judges on false accusations, or by denying salaries requisite to their support. It rested with the people, however, to secure the honesty and right-doing of the Legislature, and on this basis one must look for the preservation of the rights of the citizens and of the guaranteed rights of the States.

No further proceedings took place and the Court adjourned immediately on the conclusion of Mr. Stanberry's argument.

SUPREME COURT OPINIONS.

Ewing vs. City of St. Louis. Decree of Circuit Court of Missouri affirmed.

The United States vs. Louis Pauline De Repentigny. Judgment reversed, leaving the government in possession of six square leagues of land in Michigan, valued at from three to five million dollars, and which the Court below had held to belong to the heirs of Count Repentigny, a former soldier in the French army.

In the Iowa liquor cases judgments were affirmed on the same grounds assigned in the Massachusetts cases.

Woodruf vs. Iverns. Appeal from Circuit Court, middle district, Tennessee. Cause dismissed.

FROM RICHMOND.

Meeting of the United States Court—Charge of Judge Underwood to the Grand Jury—Trial of Jeff. Davis.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

RICHMOND, May 6.—The United States District Court, Judge Underwood presiding, commenced its session to-day. Among the members of the Grand Jury were John M. Botts, Joseph Segar, Lewis McKensie, and five colored men. The Judge, in his charge, congratulated the jury that though it had been threatened with destruction by assassination, yet, thanks to our Congress, it met now in security. This promised better things for Richmond, a city where the press had reached the lowest depths of profligacy, where the pulpit had been prostituted by the ministers, where gay Latharios and licentiousness had existed until half the children were illegitimate. The jury would have a good deal of work, much of it created by the demoralization of the people by the disloyal press, which had encouraged perjury and counterfeiting to cheat the Government. He called attention to the fact that negroes were not allowed the freedom of the street cars.

The Examiner has information that the session of the Court will be prolonged until the adjournment of the Supreme Court, when Chief Justice Chase will come here and preside at the trial of Davis.

S. H. Chandler, Prosecuting Attorney, is in New York, consulting with Mr. Evarts, Davis' counsel, about the trial. Mr. Davis will probably be brought here on Saturday, and then held by the civil authorities until his trial.

Chief Justice Chase is expected next week.

Steamship Wrecked—The New Levee Commissioners—Riotous Proceedings by Negroes—Another Crevasse.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, May 5.—The steamship Prince Albert, from Corpus Christi for New Orleans, with a cargo of cattle and hogs, was wrecked on the beach west of Galveston yesterday. The crew and passengers were saved. The vessel is a total loss and is not insured.

The following are the names of the Levee Board appointed by General Sheridan: Effendom Lawrence, J. Hoglesby, J. Burnside, W. D. Smith, W. L. McMillier.

Some negroes yesterday attempted to get up a riot by taking possession of the Rampart street cars, appropriated for the use of ladies and children, the whites refusing to ride in those appropriated to themselves.

On Saturday some negroes threatened to force an entrance to the French Opera House on an equality with the whites. They appear determined to take advantage of the temporary reduction of the police force, on account of Gen. Sheridan's order to discharge one-half of the force and substitute ex-Union soldiers.

During the heavy storm last night another crevasse occured on the bank of the river, thirteen miles above the city, and endangers the city of Algiers, Greatna and Opelousas Railroad.

NASHVILLE, May 6.—The Tennessee Senate met yesterday as a Court of Impeachment to try Hon. Thomas N. Frazer, of the Criminal Court in this city. The charge against the Judge is that he corruptly and unlawfully released certain members of the Legislature under arrest, under authority of the House of Representatives, upon a writ of habeas corpus in July last. The records and articles of impeachment were read. The defense will be made to-morrow. Being the first case of the kind in the judicial records of the States, it is exciting great interest. Hon. A. Maynard, John Trimble, and Judge N. A. Patterson, are of the counsel for the prosecution, and Hon. Edwin H. Ewing, E. H. East, Hon. John S. Brien and Judge Grant for the defense.

E. H. East, lately appointed U. S. District Attorney, announced in the Federal Court this morning that he declined to accept the position.

The officer and jailor Kavanaugh were overpowered and the party succeeded in getting away, including the prisoner, who is charged with attempted murder and other crimes. Officer Johnson was badly beaten and was fortunate in escaping with his life, as the assailants were all armed with revolvers. They are still at large.

LOUISVILLE, May 6.—The river is rising with nine feet six inches water in the canal.

A Financial Crash.

The long expected financial crash and failures among the merchants and planters are about commencing. In my last I informed you of the failure of the large provision house of Lopez, Trapaga & Co., and now the list has been swelled by the failure of the merchant and planter, J. A. S. Argudin, well known in the United States. His liabilities are announced to be two and a half millions of dollars. The state of his assets will go far towards paying this, as he owns several valuable plantations. Another planter, well known in the United States, Mr. Santa Cruz de Oviedo, whose "diamond wedding" created such an excitement several years ago, has made an arrangement with his creditors for about $250,000 which he was unable to pay, but he has been enabled to make the necessary arrangements to prevent him from becoming bankrupt. Several more failures are expected within a few days, and things look very squally. This state of affairs, the general stagnation in every branch of business, and the new tax law make commercial operations very difficult, as there is no confidence among the merchants.—Havana Correspondence N. Y. Times, April 27.

—A woman who was wrongly confined three years in the Illinois Insane Asylum, makes a horrible disclosure of the outrages and cruelties practiced there. One process of punishment is to fit the patient with a strong, closely fitting, waist or "jacket," with sleeves coming below the hand and sewed up, having a single loop-hole through which a strong cord may be passed. Her arms are then crossed in front, the hands are drawn tightly behind her, she is thrown violently on the floor, face downward, her clothing is removed or turned up, and then she is beaten until her flesh is but a jelly. Patients are stripped and plunged in the cold bath until life is nearly extinct. Others for the slightest offence are pounded and kicked in the most terrible manner. Patients are often choked until their faces are black and their tongues hang out of their mouths. A lady of refinement, of pure and virtuous character, and a nature remarkably true to the instincts of a true woman, before being there thirty-six hours, was stripped of all her clothing except a torn chemise, and laid upon her back upon the floor, Dr. —— sitting astride her naked body, while the attendants applied the strap to her quivering limbs. Insanity appears to be treated as a crime, and all are ready to punish the criminals. Such a state of things is a disgrace to humanity.

—Sir S. M. Peto has made his promised motion in Parliament for an investigation of his conduct in the affairs of the London, Chatham and Dover Railway Company. He desired the opportunity to demonstrate his innocence of the charges made against him. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Disraeli, opposed the motion, on the ground that the House could not enter upon an investigation of such a character. He spoke in terms of eulogy of Sir S. M. Peto, and his praises were emphatically repeated by Mr. Gladstone. Thus a man, about whom the tory press and Punch have said the most severe things, is suddenly vindicated by the open and official praise and approval of the two great English party leaders.

—The Emperor of Austria has restored to the collateral heirs of General Kiss—who was executed on the 6th of October, 1849, at Arad, with thirteen other generals of the national army, amongst whom was the ever lamented Nagy Sandor, Ibrok, and Count Vecsey—the whole of his property, confiscated to the State during the revolution, and valued at four millions five hundred thousand florins. This act will, it is said, be followed by others of a similar character. As the justice of the cause for which these and hundreds of other martyrs were doomed to death is now admitted by their executioners, restitution can scarcely be withheld any longer.

—A rumor spread through Covington, Ky., on Tuesday night, and was actually believed by many, that Samuel Case, whose body was brought to that city after the execution in Cincinnati, had come to life. According to the report, one of his hands was observed to move, and his family thinking that life was not quite extinct, quickly obtained the services of a physician, who applied a galvanic battery to his body, and succeeded in fully restoring him to consciousness. Upon reaching the house of Case's mother, we found the body of the youthful culprit neatly encased in an expensive coffin, awaiting interment. His sisters stated that he had shown no signs of life since being brought to the house. The face and hands of the deceased were very white, and he wore upon his countenance a smile which made him look quite natural.

—Thousands of cattle have died in Kansas during the past winter from exposure and lack of proper food. The mortality has been especially severe in the southern part of the State. One company has lost twelve thousand in two or three weeks. A Kansas paper hopes that this costly lesson will be taken to heart. In a grass-growing State like Kansas there is no excuse for a deficiency of fodder in winter.

COMMON COUNCIL VS. POLICE AUTHORITIES.

The Board of Councilmen to-day adopted a resolution in opposition to the action of the Police Commissioners, transferring the jurisdiction over licenses for theatres, emigrant boarding houses, pawnbrokers, hacks, cars, omnibuses and drivers, &c., from the Mayor and Aldermen to themselves, without, it is said, warrant of law, and requesting the Mayor to immediately interpose the full power and authority vested in him, by any resolution of the Common Council or the charter of the city, to save all such persons harmless from neglect to comply with the orders of the police authorities in respect to licenses, in order thereby to test the constitutionality of the act by which it is contemplated to transfer from the city one of its few remaining municipal rights. The debate was somewhat excited, the Democrats urging the adoption of the resolutions, saying the people would soon rise and hurl from power the tyrants of the police organization, and the Republicans opposing the resolutions as calculated to lead to riot.

OVATION TO SCHUYLER COLFAX—HIS RESPONSE TO AN ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Schuyler Colfax received an ovation at the Union League Rooms to-night, and in response to an address of welcome by John Jay, made a brief speech, alluding to the events, agencies and results of the war of rebellion, and paying a tribute to the memory of the martyred President. The Thirty-ninth Congress, he said, was the noblest, most patriotic body of men he had seen in the Capitol during his public service. They wisely rejected the ill advised policy of an Executive, whose highest ambition seems to be in destroying the party which elevated him to power, and enacted laws which the vast majority of the South with alacrity ignoring all lifelong prejudices, are hastening to accept. The great party which passed these laws intended to stand by them faithfully and literally, if their terms were complied with by the rebel States, in good faith and without evasion. Faithful to the traditions of our fathers, in sympathizing with all who long for maintaining or the advancement of liberty in Mexico or England, in Ireland or Crete, and yet carefully avoiding all entangling alliances or violations of the law; with a recognition from ocean to ocean, North and South alike, of the right of all citizens bound by the law to share in the choice of the law makers, and thus to have a voice in the country, their heart's blood must defend. Our centennial anniversary of the Declaration of Independence will find us an entire nation, recognizing the great truths on that immortal Magna Charta, rejoicing in a fame wide as the world and eternal as the stars, with a prosperity that shall eclipse in our future all the brightest glories of the past.

DESPERATE AFFAIR IN BROOKLYN.

A riot occurred in a liquor saloon in Brooklyn, on Sunday. Two policemen were badly beaten in attempting to arrest the proprietor for violating the excise law. Some twenty or thirty persons in the room attacked the officers and a desperate fight ensued. The officers drew their revolvers to save their lives, when several of the rioters drew pistols and threatened to blow the brains out of the officers. Finally the officers escaped, and going to the station house, procured assistance. On their return the place was closed. The proprietor of the saloon was subsequently arrested.

ANNIVERSARY MEETINGS.

Anniversary meetings commenced yesterday and continued to-day. The American Missionary Association report that there are one million school children among the freedmen, who need twenty thousand teachers. There are now, however, less than two thousand in the field. At least two hundred thousand freedmen have learned to read within a year. The receipts last year were $253,000; of seven months of this fiscal year $145,000, a larger monthly average of receipts than are needed for the remaining five months.

The Sproul Murder—Bird and Whittaker Waive a Hearing—They are Fully Identified as the Murderers.

Yesterday the twin mates of infamy, John Bird and Thomas Whittaker, who were captured through the energy of Alderman Strain's police, on a charge of being concerned in the mysterious murder of David Sproul, had a hearing at Washington, Pa. For the benefit of those who did not read an account of the tragedy published just after its occurrence, we give the following resume of the principal incidents. About eight o'clock on the evening of March 18th, a man visited the house of Sproul, and asked him the way to the Railroad station. The latter very obligingly went with the stranger along the lane to a pair of bars near the barn, about fifteen rods from the house, to show him the way across the fields to the township road. When they had gone about ten rods, two others came round the corner of the house and followed after. When at the bars they knocked him down, and probably struck him when down, as there was a large pool of blood there, and a considerable quantity of hair sticking in the mud close by it. They then led him back to the house, one supporting him on each side. As he entered the door he was bleeding profusely about the face, and said to his maiden sister, (who is about fifty years of age, and the only person living with him,) "I am badly hurt." One of the villians then seized her by the arm, took her out of the house, and around it into the other house, took her up stairs and tied her hands behind her back; tied her feet together; laid her on the bed and strapped her tight to the bedstead; told her to tell where the money was or he would shoot her. She told him all she knew, and then he went to work ransacking. This one had his face blackened. He brought her out of the house as the others entered. She heard them beating her brother with the tongs. He halloed out, and they said, "Give us your money, then." They continued to beat and cut him until life was extinct. They then went in search of money, but only found some $115 and two silver watches. Going back to the place of murder, they helped themselves to bread and cream, went to the spring and washed, then left, leaving the old woman tied up stairs, where she remained for twenty-four hours until a neighbor happened in and released her.

Alderman Strain, of this city, immediately set to work to solve the mystery, and with the few clues he had endeavored to ferret out the perpetrators of the horrible crime. Officer Wilmot was put upon the trail, and in conjunction with Alderman Strain soon worked up the case to such a point as led to an information charging Samuel Eggleston, John Young, Thomas Whittaker and John Bird with the murder of David Sproul. Everything being arranged, a descent was made on that well-known resort, the "Irwin House," where it was expected to capture several, who, at least, had some knowledge of the transaction. Unfortunately, the descent was a failure to a certain extent, as there were none of the parties arrested but Bird. On the day following, however, Whittaker was caught on Fifth street, near Wood, and committed to jail to await a hearing. While Bird was in the lock-up Alderman Strain held a conversation with him. During the conversation the prisoner showed signs of considerable alarm, and finally acknowledged that he knew something of the affair, but positively denied any participation in the crime. He said the whole thing was concocted in jail; that among the prisoners there was a man who knew Sproull, and the vicinity where he resided, and who said that a good thing could be made there. After the release of the parties from jail, Bird said the final arrangements were made at the Irwin House, and from here the party started to execute the plan. After the commission of the deed the villains kept away from the city until arrested as stated.

The prisoners, Bird and Whittaker, were taken to Washington county by Sheriff Culley, and yesterday a hearing in the case was had. District Attorney Crumrine appeared for the commonwealth, and William Linn and John Coyle, Esqs., represented the defendants, as counsel. Alderman Strain, Eb. Williams, Jr. Esq., and officers Seth Wilmot and James Brown, of this city, were in attendance as witnesses. The hearing, however, was waived, inasmuch as the case assumed a new feature; the aged sister of the murdered man, whose life was spared by the demons to accomplish their own punishment, appeared and positively recognized Bird and Whittaker as two of the murderers.

The prisoners were remanded to prison to await their trial. Too much credit cannot be awarded Alderman Strain and his efficient detectives, Brown and Wilmot. They have managed the case with decided tact and ability, and that they have settled upon the right parties is now no longer a matter of doubt. We earnestly hope that other culprits who have thus far eluded the vigilance of the police, will be arrested, and with their partners in crime brought to swift and speedy justice.

Second Anniversary of the Friend Rifles.

Last evening the anniversary of the battle of Williamsburg was appropriately observed by the members of the Friend Rifles in a grand re-union banquet at Schild's restaurant, Third street. This company, which ever claimed noted attention from the citizens of Allegheny county, inasmuch as it was composed entirely of young men of this city who enjoyed the reputation of being amongst the foremost in point of respectability, intelligence and patriotism, performed signal service in the overthrow of the rebellion, and now, in time of peace, keep up the organization, and yearly meet in friendly banquet to commemorate incidents connected with their brilliant career upon the tented field. The meeting last evening organized by the election of Maj. J. F. Dennison, as brave a soldier as ever handled the sword, as Chairman, and Capt. John McLannahan as Secretary. After partaking of a sumptuous meal, prepared by Mr. H. Schild, the cloths were removed, and wine, sparkling wine, was introduced, after which toast and speech making was made the order of the evening. Able and patriotic addresses were delivered by Messrs. Hon. P. C. Shannon, Capt. John McLannahan, Major J. F. Dennison, Captain Robt. G. Hare, Lieut. Will T. Black and T. P. Houston, while national songs were sung by Capt. Black and Mr. J. T. Buck. At a late hour the banquet was ended, and all retired with a pleasant remembrance of the second anniversary of the Friends' Rifle Guard. We observed in attendance the following gallant soldiers: Major J. F. Dennison, Captain John McLannahan, Captain John C. Dalgliesh, Lieutenant Wm. T. Black, Captain Robert G. Hare, Hugh Y. Boyce, W. B. Palmer, John F. Schroeder, Ben. T. Hall, John Buck, Charles Collins, David M. Russell, Lieutenant Harry Scandrett, John Burke and James P. Gelston. At a late hour the assemblage adjourned, all highly pleased with the second anniversary of the Friends' Rifles and of the battle of Williamsburg.

The Lawrenceville Council.

The Council of the borough of Lawrenceville held a regular meeting last evening. The principal business considered was the report of the Street Committee relative to the grading and paving of streets, the Committee recommending considerable improvement in this respect. The report was accepted.

One item of business was the reconsideration of the vote on the election of Borough Printer, the Republic being substituted for the Dispatch.

Mr. Devlin, Borough Regulator, reported that he had completed the plan or survey of the Second ward, and desired that the contract price, $500, be paid him. A warrant was drawn for the amount.

Difficulty Among the Colored Folks.

—Louis Vaughan, a resident of Hati, while passing down street the other day, chanced to see one W. Armstrong Washington, talking to his wife and immediately the green-eyed monster rose to such a degree within him that he could not contain himself. He imagined all kind of bad things from this meeting of Washington with his wife, and so pitched in and administered bodily chastisement to him on the spot. Washington afterwards appeared before Alderman Lindsay and made information against Vaughan for assault and battery. A similar charge was entered by Vaughan against Washington, but both cases were settled before the Alderman, each party agreeing to pay half the costs.

The Soho Homicide—Full Particulars.

In our last edition we briefly referred to the killing of a young man named John Joyce by a single blow from the doubled fist of a companion named James McCloskey, at a house in the neighborhood of Lock No. 1, on the Monongahela river. Our reporter visited the scene of the fatal occurrence yesterday morning and obtained the following particulars of the affair: It appears that on Sunday evening last young McCloskey, Joyce, the deceased, and a youth named James O'Hanlon visited the boarding-house of Charles Welte for the purpose of whiling away the time, and were engaged with a number of the boarders in a friendly chat and ale drinking. The conversation was of the most friendly character till about nine o'clock, when Joyce commenced "running a rig" on O'Hanlon concerning a girl who both had been paying attention to, and who Joyce had won from O'Hanlon. From pleasantry the conversation led to angry words, and a quarrel seemed imminent. Joyce was a large and powerful man, of very muscular build, while O'Hanlon is a very small, slender man, weighing not much over one hundred pounds. Young McCloskey did not participate in the quarrel of words, and with the other persons in the room listened quietly to the talk, not offering any interference. Finally, seeing both losing their tempers, McCloskey came forward and said that the matter had gone far enough, and that Joyce had "run" O'Hanlon sufficient, and as he (O'Hanlon) was not big enough to take his own part he (McCloskey) would do it for him. Previous to this time McCloskey had been sitting with some others at the table, and Joyce had been sitting on a bench on the opposite side of the stove. Joyce now got up and apparently was assuming an attitude to fight, when McCloskey also arose and springing suddenly towards him dealt him a blow with his naked fist somewhere about the head, and kicked him as he reeled and fell forward heavily to the floor. The persons present immediately seized McCloskey and the disturbance was at an end. Joyce was senseless from the moment of his fall, and expired within a few minutes. McCloskey was terrified at the effects of the blow, and did all in his power to bring back to consciousness the man he had struck in an evil moment of passion, and it is said wept bitterly when the man ceased to breathe.

After the death of Joyce, McCloskey went home and retired to bed, and when the house was visited by the police, a few hours later, he came out and delivered himself into their hands and was conveyed to the tombs, where he now remains awaiting the result of the Coroner's inquest. He is only eighteen years of age and is of powerful build. We have known him as a peaceable, sober, hard-working and manly young fellow for a long time past, and regret exceedingly that in an evil hour he has brought a world of misery about himself and a load of sorrow to his friends. Evidently the killing was not premeditated, but resulted from what jurists term "an accidental blow," given in the heat of passion. The deceased was a worthy, sober and industrious young man, about twenty years of age, and boarded at the house where he met his tragic end. He was employed at the pipe manufactory of Evans, Clow & Co.

Coroner Clawson yesterday morning impannelled a jury in the case, and the inquest will be continued this morning at nine o'clock at the Mayor's office. Dr. A. C. Murdock made a post mortem examination, and found that the axis of the cervical vertebrae had been dislocated. A bruise is visible on the point of the jaw where the blow was struck, and a slight cut exists on the left temple, as if, in falling, the deceased had struck some object.

All the parties seemed to be sober, and the best of feeling always existed, even up till within a few minutes of the quarrel, between McCloskey and the deceased. O'Hanlon, the innocent cause of all the trouble, it would appear, had for some time paid his attentions to a young girl residing near Two Mile Run, and Joyce claimed to have won her favor to the exclusion of O'Hanlon. Repeatedly, of late, it is stated, Joyce had taken occasion, when he would see O'Hanlon, to laugh at him good naturedly about allowing himself to be beaten in his affairs of gallantry.

The prisoner is very respectably connected, (a son of Manus McCloskey, Esq., one of our most esteemed and worthy fellow-citizens) and this is the first time his name has ever appeared before the public as a transgressor.

For Private Houses.

No family can afford to do without music. It is a luxury and an economy; an alleviator of sorrow, and a spring of enjoyment; a protection against vice, and an incitement to virtue. When rightly used, its effects, physical, intellectual, and moral, are good, very good, and only good.

Make home attractive:—Music affords a means of doing this.

Cultivate kindly feeling, love:—Music will help in this work.

Keep out angry feeling:—"Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast."

Be economical:—Pleasure, recreation all must have, and no pleasure costs less in proportion to its worth than home music.

Make your sons and daughters accomplished:—What accomplishment is more valuable than music.

Fit your daughters to support themselves in the future, if need be:—There has been no time in many years when any young lady having sufficient knowledge to teach music could not pleasantly earn a respectable support in that way.

But some may say, "I have no ear for music, nor have any of my family." Probably not one of you has ever tried it faithfully. Perhaps your sons had no natural "ears" for reading, or your daughters natural hands for writing; and certainly unless they had learned these things they would never have been accomplished in them. Music does, in fact, come more naturally to most people than many other accomplishments that are next to universal; yet it it does not come to all without much time spent in careful cultivation.

The one best means of introducing music to the family, and inducing its cultivation, is to procure a good musical instrument. If none of your daughters or sons can play at all, yet, if they have a good instrument at hand, some of them will learn. In almost every family this will be the case. Buy an instrument, and try the experiment. If it succeeds only to a very small extent, the cost will be repaid many fold.

For this purpose, no instrument presents more attractions than the Cabinet Organ: considering its moderate cost and general convenience, none is so available.

The introduction of this instrument has indeed added a most important resource to the possibilities of home music; the best, most important of all music. It is made in such variety of styles, and at such wide range of prices, as to suit the taste and means of all classes. Some of the largest sized Cabinet Organs, in elegant cases, five hundred to one thousand dollars each, are among the most exquisite pieces of furniture imaginable. Those at less prices are worthy a place in any drawing room. The plainer styles are only one to two hundred dollars each, while the Portable Organs are furnished as low as seventy-five dollars.

Mr. C. C. Mellor, is the exclusive agent for the Mason and Hamlin Cabinet Organs for Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania, and always has a splendid steck of them at his warerooms, No. 81 Wood street. If you want to purchase such an instrument, dont decide until you have seen and heard the Mason & Hamlin's—Send for a circular. Sent post paid.

The Compounding Felony Case—Information Made.

In yesterday's GAZETTE we alluded to the circumstances attending the prosecution of John McCoy a huckster, by Thomas Ryan, for the larceny of turkeys, and have also recorded the fact of the trial, conviction and sentence. The developments made at the trial and subsequently have resulted in an information being made against Alderman Donaldson and James Miller, charging them with compounding felony. The information was made yesterday by McCoy, yet in prison serving sentence, and is, in substance: That Thomas Ryan, in January last, made an information before James Donaldson, an Alderman in this city, charging deponent with the larceny of turkeys, upon which he was arrested and taken to the office of said Donaldson, and after a hearing committed to jail; afterwards he gave Dr. Thomas J. Gallaher as bail for his appearance at Court to answer the charge; that upon his release from jail he deposited the sum of three hundred dollars with Dr. Thos. J. Gallaher, as security, and that subsequently Dr. Gallaher was released as bail, James Miller being substituted as bondsman, said Miller, upon a written note from said Donaldson, getting the three hundred dollars from Dr. Gallaher; that Miller proposed to deponent to settle the case, and that he and deponent went to the office of Alderman Donaldson for that purpose; that Miller and Donaldson did then and there agree to settle and conceal said felony, and returned to deponent the sum of one hundred and forty dollars of the three hundred, after paying costs, &c. Warrants were issued by Alderman Morrow last evening, and the accused held for trial.

Before Alderman Lynch.

There were four informations made before this magistrate yesterday, against Marcus Kline, two for assault and battery and two for a breach of the peace. The charges were preferred by S. Stein and H. Livingstone. They alleged, in their informations, that defendant had laid violent hands on them, and also threatened to do them great bodily harm, besides calling them thieves and other opprobrious epithets. On hearing, however, before the Alderman, the cases were settled, the parties making up enough of money among themselves, by mutual agreement, to pay the costs.

Kay & Co's. New Book and Stationery Store, Lafayette Building, No. 65 Wood Street.

Prominent among the old and prosperous business houses of the city which connect the early history of trade with the present, and stand as index boards to mark the growth of our commercial importance, is recognized the book and stationery house of Kay & Co. Established so far back in the past as 1830, it has steadily kept pace with the times till to-day, in its thirty-seventh year, it stands among the most prosperous within the boundaries of our State, and certainly has few superiors outside of those limits. By liberal enterprise, fair dealing and a systematic course of business, the firm of Kay & Co., have succeeded in building up for themselves a large public patronage, extending throughout our own and adjoining States. Retaining all of their old custom and daily adding new patrons, their business of late so enlarged as to require more ample and better facilities for its transaction. In selecting a site for their new store prudence suggested that they should not remove from the business locality with which they had been so long identified, and accordingly they secured one of the fine salesrooms in the recently erected Lafayette Building. This commodious store room they have fitted up in superb style, with all the conveniences and adaptations which experience suggested as necessary for their particular business, and as finished, it is without doubt one of the most elegant book and stationery establishment in the country. The entrance from Wood street is through a wide doorway, upon either side of which are the show windows, constructed from the very best quality of French plate glass in immense panes, and well calculated for a fine display of goods, and through which the pedestrian on the thoroughfare gains a distinct view of the graceful proportions, and the chaste and elegant fittings of the principal salesroom. On both sides of this main salesroom are the casings for books, so arranged as to present to the purchaser a series of parlor libraries as it were, accessible to everybody, each book located within convenient reaching distance. The shelves are adjustable on ratchets so as to be made conformable to the volumes covering them, and thus present an unique and harmonious appearance. Along the top of the shelving runs a heavy cornice which is neatly ornamented by elaborately carved brackets, giving the whole a beautiful appearance. The framing or doors of the casing are very neatly constructed, enclosing large panes of clear French glass, which almost successfully defy the sight to detect that anything intervenes between the books and ourselves. Underneath the casings which run nearly the full depth of the store upon both sides are double lockers arranged for paper stationery and miscellaneous articles. A range of light drawers which are movable with ease supply the place of the lockers for a considerable distance upon the left side of the store, towards the rear and are admirably adapted for the keeping of light articles of stationery. The counters on this floor rest upon light and graceful cast iron pedals, and are of the smoothest and prettiest of black walnut. They are alternately arranged upon either side of the salesroom, with a view of affording free circulation to customers, and avoiding anything like cramped up space, where for comfort, space is necessary. A number of elegant chandeliers depend at intervals of space from the ceiling and add much to the effect of the department. The painting of the main wood work of the interior of the store is in highly polished light oak and black walnut, colors admirably adapted to the smoky atmosphere of Pittsburgh.

On the main floor in the rear of the salesroom is located the office, a light and commodious apartment well adapted to the transaction of business. The basement of the store has been fitted up with every convenience for the transaction of wholesale business and storage of heavy goods. All the packing, receiving and shipping of goods is carried on in this room, which also contains the heating apparatus, thereby preventing, in the upper room, any accumulation of dust or sooty deposits, an advantage not to be underrated in the bookselling trade.

We regret that we have not at our disposal sufficient space to do full justice to the novel and interesting specialities of this magnificent house, but our readers must pay it a visit and judge for themselves.

The absence of cheap display, the want of unnecessary ornamentation, and the presence of every convenience which could be suggested for the proper transaction of their line of trade, reflects the good taste and judgment of the firm in fitting up their establishment.

Without disparaging any rival house in the trade, we must say that Messrs. Kay & Company deserve the the credit of producing one of the best adapted and neatest salesrooms of the character to be fonnd either East or West.

Passing from the description of the store to the large and well assorted stock contained therein, our attention is first called to the fact, that the retail salesroom is divided off into appropriate departments, enabling the purchaser to examine or make a selection with the greatest ease. In the first department to the left on entering, a large collection of finely bound and illustrated books greet the eye, including, within its limits, some of the most beautiful specimens of book-making, issued from the American and English press.

To enumerate a small portion of the works here found would exceed the limits of our space. The Life of Man Symbolized in the Days of the Year, The Artist's Edition of Irving's Sketch Book, Dore's Don Quixote, the illustrated Jean Ingelow, and the Festival of Songs, all give evidence of the degree of perfection to which this department has attained. In standard literature the editions of both American and foreign authors issued from the American press, during the last few years, rival the best efforts of the most celebrated English publishers.

It has been the aim of Kay & Co. to give due prominence to this department, and to aid in developing the increasing taste for the best editions of the favorite authors. Here may be found, in all varieties of binding, the celebrated Riverside editions of Hallam, Shakespeare, Lamb, Milman, Macauley, Carlyle, and the Household Editions of Dickens & Waverly, Grant Whites Shakespeare, the new and beautiful edition of Edmund Burke, the Boston edition of the Poets, and numerous others whose names are familiar to the lovers of good books.

The various departments of History, Biography, Arts, Science and Belles Lettres, are here fully represented, enabling the purchaser of a single volume, or a whole library, to have his particular literary taste gratified to its fullest extent.

The Legal Department of the Book Trade has always formed a prominent part of the business of the firm, and it is their intention to still further increase their extensive collection of all the leading law publications required by the profession.

Their Legal Blanks have a wide and constantly increasing reputation for the careful manner in which they are arranged and the superior quality of paper on which they are printed.

A large space is devoted to an extensive collection of the most approved works on medical science, to which special attention is given.

We will briefly mention here that all the leading new issues of the press will be found on the shelves of Kay & Co. as soon as possible after their publication, and that they pay careful attention to all special orders for American and foreign books.

Want of space compels us to briefly enumerate the remaining branches of this large establishment. They consist of the following departments:

School and College Text Books, comprising all the popular works now in use.

Family and Pocket Bibles, Prayer and Hymn Books, Foreign and American, Fancy and Staple Stationery, Writing papers and Blank Books. To the manufacture of the latter to order they pay special attention and have deservedly succeeded in creating a great reputation for their superior work.

It might be here remarked that Kay & Co. have a large jobbing and wholesale trade, supplying the wants of a large number of dealers in various sections of the country. The conveniences introduced in this department will greatly facilitate the transaction of the rapidly increasing wholesale patronage, and indeed, for both retail and wholesale departments, we bespeak, under the new order of things, a large increase of trade, which we heartily wish the firm.

False Pretences.

Eliza Reed made information before Alderman Lindsay yesterday against Edward Bennett, charging him with obtaining boarding under false pretences. The case was settled by defendant giving bonds to pay in full the amount claimed by prosecutor.

—Thus hath our reporter recorded the action of his magistracy, James Lindsay, Esq., in the matter stated. A fair sample of the way in which some of our intelligent Aldermen "torture the law," in other words, as we remarked a few days ago, "make use of the criminal law to enforce the collection of debts." The idea of "giving bonds" to pay "boarding obtained under false pretenses" is a new one. Look up your "penality code," Mr. Alderman.

Attempted Suicide.

On Sunday evening a gentleman residing in the Sixth ward, of this city, whose name is suppressed, attempted to commit suicide by swallowing laudanum. It appears that he has, of late, been addicted to the too free use of ardent spirits, and being reproached therewith by his wife, became despondent and attempted to take his life as stated. His purpose was discovered, however, and a physician summoned, who, by the prompt application of antidotes, prevented the would-be suicide from accomplishing his purpose. He declares that he will yet succeed in destroying himself, as he has fully made up his mind do so, on account of his domestic infelicity. He has been married but three months.

County Agricultural Society—The Next State Fair.

The Board of Managers of the Allegheny County Agricultural Society held a special meeting yesterday, at which the following members were present: Messrs. Haven, Hill, McKelvy, Keeler, Parke, Verner, Young, Guy, Jennings, and Brush.

Mr. Parke was chosen President pro tem, and on motion it was resolved that he should act in that capacity during the absence of Mr. Chess, the regular President, who has gone to Paris as Commissioner to the Great Exposition.

The meeting was called to consider a matter of business in reference to the Fair grounds, which was referred to a committee with power to act.

Mr. Parke submitted correspondence with A. Boyd Hamilton, Esq., of the State Society, in reference to the holding of the next State Fair at Pittsburgh, accompanying which was the basis of an agreement as to the terms upon which the State Society would consent to hold its next exhibition at this city. The committee of the County Board were vested with full power to continue the negotiations, which it is confidently expected will result in Pittsburgh being selected.

The statement having been made that Norristown had been designated as the point for the holding of the next State Fair, we are authorized to state that no location has yet been determined upon by the committee having the matter in charge.

The Black Crook at the Opera House.

There must be qualities of wonderful attraction in this piece, called "The Black Crook," or it never could achieved so marvelous a success as has attended its production everywhere throughout the country. Mr. Henderson has spared neither expense nor painstaking to have it brought out at the Opera House in the most complete and splendid style. He has specially re-engaged Mr. Leak, Miss Annie Waite, Miss Louisa Sylvester, Mr. Hotto, Mr. Ward, and other leading members of the company, who have done so much to render memorable the regular season just concluded, for the purpose of giving the fullest effect to the dramatic portion of the piece, but he has also secured the largest and most thoroughly organized corps de ballet that has ever appeared before a Pittsburgh audience. The leading interpreters of terpsichoric fascination are Signorina Jovetta, Mlle. Marie Therese, as premiere danseuses, with four lively leading coryphees and some thirty accomplished subordinate devotees in every bewildering phase of the poetry of motion. Of the scenery it would be almost impossible to speak in terms of adequate enthusiasm. Such optically ravishing effects have not been heretofore ventured on in any histrionic enterprise attempted on the American stage.

Rev. Alexander Clark.—We had the pleasure of hearing this distinguished divine on Sunday evening last. Subject: "The finger of God." We have seldom, if ever, heard a subject so ably handled. His illustrations abounded in fine sentiment, singularly beautiful, yet convincing, showing unmistakably the hand of God in every plant, flower, tree and shrub.

Dividends.—Out of the earnings of the past six months the Keystone Savings Bank has declared a dividend of two dollars per share. For the same period of time the Allegheny Gas Company has declared a dividend of four per cent. on the capital stock, and the Pittsburgh Insurance Company at the rate of four dollars per share.

Mrs. Dr. Trevor, in behalf of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Home for the Friendless, acknowledges the receipt of $42,50, from the concert of the "Haymakers." It is a gift bestowed on a most worthy institution, that depends, for its means of accomplishing of its benevolent ends, on the spontaneous offerings of the people of these cities.

Released from Jail.—John Lindsay, alias John Smith, and Gustave Patrick, committed to jail on the 3d inst. by Justice Jancey, of Lawrenceville, to answer a charge of malicious mischief, preferred by Mr. Schade, were released from jail yesterday, the required bail for their appearance being furnished.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that the publication of Henry Ward Beecher's Story is to be commenced in the New York Ledger for this week. The Ledger has also secured a series of articles from the Presidents of twelve of the principal Colleges in the country.

Demise of an Old Veteran.—Charles Islett, an old soldier, died at his residence in Lawrenceville, on Saturday, aged seventy-two years. He was a native of Louisiana, and participated in the Florida war, having a command. His body was embalmed and placed in the Allegheny Cemetery.

As will be seen by our advertising columns, an election for officers of the Merchants National Telegraph Company will be held this afternoon, at two o'clock, at the Board of Trade Rooms. A full attendance is desired.

Released.—Albert Martich, committed by Mayor McCarthy to answer a charge of assault and battery, was released from jail yesterday, the bonus required for his appearance having been furnished.

Tickets for Professor Tetedoux's Concert are for sale at Kleber's, 122 Wood street.

—Alexander Dumas has had himself photographed on the same card with Adah Isaacs Menken Heenan, and exhibited in the Paris shop windows. There are several different poses of this strange couple, Alexander sitting with the Menken on his knee, he in his shirt sleeves, and Adah with her arm about his neck, and other postures.

—A farmer named Alfred Hoyt killed his neighbor, Josiah Stanford, at Dundas, Minnesota, on Tuesday, with an axe, almost severing his head from his body, and cutting off both hands. Hoyt then proceeded to the house and attempted to murder Mrs. Stanford, but she evaded him until her two sons rescued her and seized the murderer. Hoyt says he is glad he killed the old man, and is only sorry he did not kill the old woman. A quarrel respecting cattle running at large was the cause.

THE MEXICAN SLAUGHTERS.

When intelligence was first received of the slaughter of Imperialists, prisoners of war, by order of the Republican leaders in Mexico, a general but positive denial was put in by the friends of these leaders in the United States. It was protested that the damaging statements had been given circulation, without authority, by persons inimical to free government, and that the facts, when fully ascertained, would prove them to be false and calumnious. In due time all the particulars became known. The original accounts were demonstrated to be correct in all essential points. Soon other massacres, of like character, happened, and then it transpired that these butcheries were neither accidental nor exceptional, but the results of a definite and predetermined policy. When this became manifest, the eulogists of the Mexican chiefs shifted their ground. Admitting the reality of the slaughters and of their occurrence, in conformity to orders of military commanders, the plea was set up in abatement that they were in retaliation of like barbarities inflicted at the beginning of the French invasion, by authority of Marshal Forey, upon Republicans who saw fit to make resistance. This plea is altogether insufficient and unavailing.

It is a fact that the French resorted to the harshest means to discourage resistance to their unprincipled enterprise. Many Mexicans, of high rank and unblemished characters, were ruthlessly murdered because they continued a hopeless struggle against the invaders. If retaliation had been made at the time upon any Imperialists taken captive by the Mexicans, reasonable complaint could not have been made. Such severity would have been excused as an extreme but justifiable means for preventing the repetition of enormities by the French.

During the progress of the rebellion in the United States the Confederate leaders starved loyal soldiers, prisoners of war, to death, by thousands and tens of thousands. A very general popular demand was made for retaliation in kind. It was thought that if rebel prisoners were subjected to the same treatment, an end would speedily be put to the horror. It is probable a feeling of revenge, on the part of relatives and friends of Union men, famished in rebel pens, gave intensity to this demand. The rules of war justified the retaliation proposed, but the government did not for a moment seriously entertain the suggestion.

So, too, after the rebels had not only avowed they would give no quarters to black soldiers, serving in the Union armies, who should fall into their power, but had in two or three instances, actually committed indiscriminate butcheries, a pretty strong demand was made for retaliation. No body disputed but the government could properly make bloody reprisals upon all rebel soldiers whom the fortunes of war should throw into their power. It was urged that the exercise of this right would constrain the rebels to rescind the rule they had adopted, and conduct the war on humaner principles. The government did not make reprisals.

Now, that the passions incident to the great struggle have measurably subsided, it is doubtful if one man or woman can be found who is not glad the government abstained from retorting in kind the barbarities of the rebel authorities. The history of the country is spared one element of horror, and the government stands credited with exercising clemency under circumstances of the utmost provocation.

What would be said if the government should now, at this distant day, take revenge for those outrages by means which would have been justifiable when they were inflicted? Surely starvations and bloody butcheries, accomplished thus, would appall the civilized world, and make the American name odious everywhere. Nor would the case have been essentially different had such reprisals been delayed only till the rebel cause was at its last gasp, just before the surrender of LEE and JOHNSON. This last specification covers all that can be said in defence of the Mexican republicans, and as more cannot be truthfully uttered, it would be quite as well to have nothing uttered.

The fact is these atrocities are exemplifications of the national character, and foreshadow what the different republican factions will do by each other as soon as a finish shall be made of the French and native imperialists. There is a good deal of the demoniac in the French character. The whole world has been startled by it on several memorable occasions. What butcheries have occurred in Paris, in La Vendee and other departments! But demonism in the French is only spasmodic and occasional. When the fit is off, they help the progress of mankind mightily by the best works of peace. Demonism with the Mexicans has become chronic. It does not intermit, except under constraint. There are no pauses in which the real works of peace attract and enlist the national energy. The whole frame of political and social life disintegrates. Ruthlessness has the upper hand. What the end must be unless the present downward tendency shall be arrested, it is neither difficult nor unsafe to predict.

Is there recuperative virtue in Mexico? That she has citizens of intelligence and integrity is confessed; but they seem to exert no influence upon her destiny. It cannot be they are indifferent spectators of the mighty current that is bearing her to irremediable anarchy. Their fate and that of their children is bound up in her's. But they are few in number, while the masses, from inclination, submit to the guidance of charlatans and impostors. They exemplify the maxim that "if fools are brayed in mortars yet will their folly not depart from them."

ARBITRATION INSTEAD OF STRIKES.

That one man or any number of men, with labor to sell, have a right to demand for it such price as he or they will, is established beyond all reasonable dispute. Purchasers of labor have the corresponding right to buy it at the rate demanded, or to go without it wholly or until they can do better. To this degree workmen and employers are entirely independent of each other. Workmen have no right to complain that employers will not pay a particular rate of compensation; nor have employers a right to find fault that workmen refuse to engage for what they offer. Neither class are infallible in judgment, and may mistake what they ought, for their own best good, to demand or concede. This happens in every department of business. Sometimes a farmer, having a crop of wheat or corn in his granaries, miscalculates the market, and refuses to sell at the prices offered. He holds over, perhaps to the next year, taking all the chances of damage by vermin, fire, water, or what not, and is then constrained to take less than was originally offered. He exercises his own privilege, and has no body to blame but himself. Sometimes a buyer of grain miscalculates the market, pays more than he ought, and finds himself bankrupt. In like manner, one or many workmen refuse to sell their labor for what is tendered, hold over, and by the condition of trade, which both they and the employers combined are incompetent to control, are finally constrained to accept the lower rates, after having suffered great loss by being unemployed, and inflicting great damage on the proprietors. There is no culpability in this. It results, not from an intention to do wrong, but from the natural imperfection of human judgment.

It is doubtless true that in the labor market, as in all other markets, sellers strive to get the highest rates they can, and buyers the lowest rates attainable. Neither ought to complain of the other. Let an employer and a workman meet at a butcher's stall or a huckster's stand of a morning, and each will strive to do the best he can with his money. Neither of them has a consciousness of wrong or meanness. When they come to bargain with each other, for the sale or purchase of labor, they both operate in the same way. Why should they criminate each other now?

It is doubtless true that capital and labor sustain important inter-dependencies. In some respects, indeed, it is not easy to discriminate between the two, so as to say definitely where the one ends and the other begins. Labor is capital, and capital is only the proceeds of labor, treasured up. "Time is money." So are skill, knowledge, genius, or even muscle, with no more intelligence behind it than falls to the lot of a beast of burden. Such being the case capital and labor are not foes, but friends. Evil suggestions, unwarrantable imputations and direct falsehoods, may alienate and plant bitterness between them; but only to their mutual hurt. They must and will come together. A man can do passably well, if he suffer the amputation of one of his legs, provided he can obtain a substitute of wood or cork. But Productive Industry has for its legs only capital and labor, and can vamp up no substitute at all.

In view of the loss of time occasioned by strikes, and the derangement of markets consequent thereon, the journeymen tailors of the city of New York, at a meeting last week, condemned them altogether, as destructive of the interests of the craft, and proposed, as a substitute, reconciliation and consultation with employers, and finally—

"Resolved, That in order to carry out the above resolutions practically, we have invited the employers in this meeting, that with their co-operation we may enforce an article contained in the constitution of the International Union of our trade, and that on the principle of arbitration as a substitute in the future for the odious system of strikes as at present carried out."

In a very different department of labor, a strike which lately embraced several thousand men, resulted in an agreement that the rate of labor should go up or down in proportion as the product of the labor varied in the market; the adjustment to be made every three months, a committee of workmen acting for the whole in the stated conferences with the employers. Under this arrangement the workmen get the advantage of a rise and accept the loss of a fall. So long as the employers and workmen act in good faith, and the latter are represented by intelligent and competent committees, there is little room for quarrels to spring up. The going market rates are open to both sides, and it is easy enough, starting with a given basis, to compute the augmentation or falling off in wages. The immense losses, frequently entailed by strikes, are avoided, both for employers and workmen, and a healthy and friendly state of feeling exists between them. Unless men see proper to try some form of Associated Industry, in which all engaged, shall be both capitalists and workmen, this scheme furnishes manifest inducements and bids fair to become common.

SLAVERY ABOLISHED IN BRAZIL.

England, Russia and the United States, within the last few years, successively abolished Slavery. In England and Russia the aristocracy—in the United States, the democracy—resisted the movement, as at variance with the laws of nature and the inculcations of revelation, as prejudicial to the welfare of the people emancipated, and as damaging to social and industrial progress. Croakings did not avail to stop the progress of the age. Even Brazil has caught the infection. Yesterday morning a Cable telegram, in our columns, announced that the Emperor of that country has abolished Slavery, the only limitation being that children shall be free on reaching majority. An enlightened man and ruler, he comprehends that liberty means elevation and improvement, and he unites his name and dynasty with the best aspirations of the age. Spain remains, in Europe and America, the champion of that domestic institution which the democratic party of this republic venerate as the corner stone of law and order.

NOT many years ago California was mainly supplied with bread from the Atlantic States. Flour commanded, at the highest, fifty dollars a barrel. Now, flour, at San Francisco, sells for $6, and large quantities of wheat have been shipped at a profit to Philadelphia and New York. Considerable lots of this wheat have been sent from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh.

MR. RANDALL denies that he has been so forgetful of self as to tender his resignation as Postmaster General. All who have watched his public career regarded the report of his resignation as a canard.

Obtaining Husbands For Young Ladies.

Three young men were before the Chicago Police Court last week on the charge of being vagrants, when one of them made the following defense: "These two gentlemen and myself are the firm of Edwards & Griffin. We are proposers. By that I mean we propose to young ladies and help to get them married. We are benefactors. When we see a young lady who is not, and never has been engaged, one of us says to her, 'We will get you married for $——, payable after marriage.' Of course she says yes. For the time being, one of us is considered engaged to her. We trumpet the fact abroad. Whenever the other two of us meet a young man who is not engaged, we say, 'What a lucky dog Griffin is! He has won Miss X.' And we praise her. We encourage the young man to go in and cut Griffin out, for the fun of the thing. Being a fool, like most young men, he does it. He proposes to Miss X., knowing that she is engaged to Griffin, and hardly expecting that she will accept him. But she always does. And he can never cut loose from her. He must marry her or be tried for breach of promise. I myself have been engaged twenty-five times during the last year. We are doing so well that we think of hiring a clerk to do part of the work for us. I should not have told you this but for your atrocious threat about Bridewell. But as we have given false names, it does not make [illegible] difference."

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.

We cheerfully make room for the following communication from SPRINGER HARBAUGH, Esq., Government Director of the Union Pacific Railroad. It fully explains itself:

MESSRS. EDITORS GAZETTE:—On my return home my attention has been called to an article in your issue of the 3d inst. under the above heading. It gives me pain to think that one of our fellow-citizens, and he an editor of a newspaper, would pen so unfair an article, and should undertake to criticise the location of the Union Pacific Railroad, without having seen a single foot of its location; when the facts are that in an engineering point of view, it is one of the best located railroads in America, so far as the line has been definitely made, or settled upon. We are all aware of the fact that we have had unprecedented floods this Spring throughout the west. The Missouri and Platte rivers, and their tributaries, have been higher than ever known by the oldest inhabitants, and most of the western roads have been more or less interrupted.

It is true that there was a few days interruption, and the regular through trains were delayed owing to ice jams and gorges in the rivers, backing the water to an overflow; but no bridges were lost, and no embankments washed away, or injured, and the road is in perfect order its entire length, and has been for two weeks past.

Before closing I desire to say for the information of the public, we are pushing the great work with all the energy and vigor that men and money can command. Our arrangements being such, we confidently expect to complete and add two miles per day to the main line, now in good running order three hundred and five miles west of the Missouri.

Very Respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
SPRINGER HARBAUGH,
Gov't Director Union Pacific R. R.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE!
Victim of debility, who is responsible for your feebleness? Not yourself, you will say, for you've done all you could to cure it. That's a mistake on your part. You hav'nt tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.
Gloomy dyspeptic, with an uneasy stomach and a world-weary face, of course you don't think yourself responsible for your own torments. But you are. It is easy to see from your condition that you hav'nt tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.
Bilious sufferer, it is not your fault, you think, that your symptoms grow worse day by day. Blue pill doesn't do you any good. Very likely. But you can be brought round for all that. Why hav'nt you tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?
Friend, on whom Fever and Ague alternately blows hot and cold, and whose brain seems to be bursting with the effects of some powerful drug, do you assume the responsibility? O, no! You've taken piles of quinine, and all the regulation medicines. What could you do more? One thing more—the very thing that would have exempted you from all the pangs that now rack you. You have never tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.
Nervous invalid, what have you to say? You plead that you have taken all the nervines of the pharmacopœia. If they have done you no good, it is not your fault. You are not responsible. Wrong, all wrong. You have, in reality, nobody to blame but yourself. Why hav'nt you tried HOSTETTER'S BITTERS?
For all the above named complaints, the Bitters are absolute specifics.

PINUS CANADENSIS.
A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is one of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases, where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidney of years standing.
Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodnow, published some time ago.
The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "It is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages; in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and instead of sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at DR. KEYSER'S Great Medicine store, 140 Wood street. ap29

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
HENRY WARD BEECHER'S
IN THE
NEW YORK LEDGER.
For Sale at all the Bookstores and News Depots.
We have the pleasure of announcing that the publication of the New Story by HENRY WARD BEECHER, which has been written expressly for THE NEW YORK LEDGER, will be commenced in No. 12 of the present volume of THE LEDGER—the number that will be published on Monday, May 6th, 1867.
It is said that on one occasion, during Mr. Beecher's residence at the West, a Committee from the church where he preached called upon him to remonstrate against his saying so many witty things in his sermons. He replied to them: "Brethren, if you only knew how much I kept back, you would never think of finding fault with me for what I say." In this story Mr. Beecher keeps back nothing. In it he gives full scope to all his faculties, and for the first time finds a fitting field in which to display his transcendent genius. The title of the story is
NORWOOD;
OR,
VILLAGE LIFE IN NEW ENGLAND.
In addition to the great attraction of this story we have secured for publication in THE LEDGER a series of articles written expressly for us, entitled ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN; being a series of twelve articles by the Presidents of twelve of the principal Colleges of the United States. The first article of the series will appear in next Monday's LEDGER—which number will also contain the first part of Mr. Beecher's story. It is on The Study of the Mathematics, by Professor Hill, of Harvard College. The second of the series will succeed it in the following number. It is on The Study of the Classics, by President Woolsey, of Yale College. The third of the series will be by the Rev. John Maclean, D. D., President of Princeton College. It is entitled, "Hints to a Young Man about to Enter College."
THE LEDGER is for sale at all the Bookstores and News Depots throughout the country, and is mailed to subscribers at $3 a year, or two copies for $5.

—Under the new law of Ohio the Grand jury of Cincinnati is bound to find a bill against the keeper of every billiard table in that city.

—An exchange inquires: "Did Powers, the sculptor, in the highest flight of a vivid imagination, ever think of chiselling his 'Greek Slave' with a chignon?" Of course not; he chiselled her out of it.

—It is complimentary to Yankee ingenuity that a commissioner has been sent from Switzerland to examine the railroad which enables us to make the ascent of Mount Washington, with a view of scaling the Alps on the same plan.

—George Peabody is now assisting, and almost supporting fully, about thirty old men and women, who are worthy subjects of his bounty, although not related in any way, or under any obligation to them. He has supported and helped many of them for years past.

—"Mark Twain" says that to "see a lovely girl of seventeen, with her saddle on her head, and her muzzle on behind, and her veil covering the end of her nose, come tripping along in her hoopless, red-buttoned dress, like a churn on fire, is enough to set a man wild."

—At St. Louis, a few days since, the police authorities hit upon the idea of dressing a policeman in women's garments, and sending him to the localities in the city where respectable ladies are insulted by loafers. The result is that several of the loungers are in custody.

—A member of the Massachusetts Legislature recently opposed an appropriation of $10,000 for Professor Agassiz's museum, urging that "the old fossils who want to keep their snakes and periwinkles and such trash," should pay for the keeping out of their own pockets.

—Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, has just entered into an engagement for visiting a number of Western cities and Mobile. He was offered $500 a night, but refused this, and instead receives one-half of the gross receipts of the house. His stay at Mobile will be for six weeks.

—The ice bridge on the St. Lawrence river at Quebec, which heretofore resisted all efforts to move it by blowing it up with gunpowder, moved on Wednesday of its own accord, and it is announced that the St. Lawrence will soon be clear of ice and navigation re-opened.

—Russia, it is announced, is anxious to push the "Eastern question" to a decisive solution during the coming summer. Russian agents are said to be actively at work in Servia and other regions, endeavoring to stir up insurrection among the people, who are already greatly dissatisfied with their rulers.

—Mr. Adams, living twelve miles west of Mansfield, La., is supposed to have been murdered by his son. He was killed while going from supper to his store, a short distance from his dwelling. He had some words the day before with his son, and ordered him to leave the place. The son threatened to kill his father, and left the place and was not seen any more until the next night. Very soon after the father was shot, the son made his appearance. He is now in jail.

A Royal Man-Eater.

The negro King George Peppel, of Bonny, proposes to visit Paris. A correspondent of the London Sun says:

"Among the illustrious strangers who will grace the Exhibition is a sovereign of note, the nigger King of Bonny, who, it is said, has a palace constructed of the bones of vanquished enemies, and who can give a human skull to one hundred thousand guests to drink from as with the loving cup. The kingdom of Bonny is situated to the north of the coast of Guinea, between the Niger and one of its confluents. It has an army of sixty thousand men, and one hundred pieces of artillery of English manufacture. The habits of the people, says a French writer, are very simple, and if they do not love one another they love the Europeans—particularly after their flesh has been cooked upon the gridiron, and if they be fat. This description reminds me of a question put by a traveler to a chief of one of the tribes of these niggers. The traveler asked if the chief's people liked the English. 'Oh, yes,' said the chief; 'and so do I—I have eaten some of them.' They seem to illustrate the admonition to 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.' His nigger majesty, adds the account, has not eaten any human beings since his journey to London in 1861, and the lords of his court have followed the example of abstinence. The people, however, still preserve their primitive taste; but, in virtue of a recent law, no native of Bonny can touch human flesh without the permission, in writing, of his lord and master. The black King, it is said, will bring with him plenty of gold in barrels, and so no doubt he will be welcome."

FINANCE AND TRADE,

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, May 6, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as reported by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 136⅜; Eighty-one bonds, 110¾; Five Twenties, 1862, 107¾; Five Twenties, 1864, 105¼; Five Twenties, 1865, 105⅞; Consols, 1865, 107⅝; Seven Thirties, 105⅝; Ten Forties, 99¼; Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, 74; Fort Wayne & Chicago, 97½; Erie, 64¾; Chicago and North Western, 36½; Chicago and North Western prefrd, 63¼; Chicago and Rock Island, 92¾; New York Central, 98¾; Reading, 104½; Michigan Southern, 69¾.

Gold opened at 135½, gradually rose to 136¼@136⅜; the demand for it is light, and the Treasury payments makes it accumulate in bank vaults. Unless war rumors are put afloat, the premium is more likely to decline than to advance. Government securities are very firm, but no demand at present for investment. Railroad shares are still higher, but the advance is not so much due to an investment demand than from brokers who wish to get up an excitement in order to have the public buy and take from their hands the stocks bought last October under bank expansion and general plethora of money. Yet, to all appearances, the advance has only set in, and whoever has nerve enough to buy at an advanced price, will be able to realize a handsome profit on his investment, if he knows at all that a reaction is to come after continued long advances.

—The seven-thirties are still moving homeward rapidly. The original amount issued of these currency bonds was $830,000,000, divided into the following classes: First series of August 15, 1864; second series of June 15, 1865, and third series of July 15, 1865. It is estimated that three hundred millions of these have so far been funded. The $530,000,000 out are made up of $130,000,000 of the first series, and $400,000,000 of the second and third series. Every facility is offered to holders to convert the old notes before maturity. At maturity holders will undoubtedly receive five-twenty bonds, dating from August 15, 1867, if they wish them.

—The 7-30 Government bonds are not convertible into 5-20s after maturity. The privilege of conversion now enhances their value. When this is gone they are worth less than now. They will almost all be changed into five-twenties within two months.

—Although the funding operations of the Treasury reach the large aggregate of thirty-five millions, and are still continuing with almost the same rapidity, not a ripple has disturbed from this cause the tranquil ease of the money market. There is less money offering, however, to the dealers in governments at low rates, and the new business is at 5 on call loans in New York, where 4 would have been accepted a day or two ago. This healthy movement results chiefly from the increase of business as the accumulation of capital and currency from the interior continues. Speculation is again becoming rampant, in consequence of the abundance of money and the prospect of better railroad and other dividends next fall. Meanwhile the South is bare of money and Northern capital would not only be welcomed in that section, but would yield from 10 to 25 per cent. upon good security. It is only kept away by the distrust and uncertainty which partizan agitation has engendered and kept alive.—Baltimore Sun.

—The Rochester (New York) Democrat, of May 1st, says: The banking house of Allis & Waters in this city suspended payment yesterday afternoon. It is not generally known how extensive the liabilities of the firm are, but the failure will not be as disastrous to the public as would be that of some other establishments in the city. The business of Allis & Waters has mostly been with stock speculators. The firm is supposed to have succumbed under a heavy pressure of Western Union Telegraph stock. A few business concerns in the city had deposits with this house, but the number is not large. Whether the assets of the concern will be sufficient to pay any considerable proportion of the liabilities we have no means of showing.

—Mining shares are moving but little. Our record of stock sales show that some of the once popular lake stocks have fallen to a very low figure. Franklin is selling at 18; Hancock, 4¾; Copper Falls, 20@22; Huron, 5¼; Pewabic, 14; Quincy, 25. We see few signs of an early improvement. One by one the old time speculators in this line are turning their backs upon the copper business and if the tide does not turn very soon all the talent will be at work elsewhere.

We hear of the failure of one of the heaviest New York stock operators, and of the serious difficulties of others here. The street is still weighed down by the late Mellen, Ward & Co. collapse, and hardly a day passes without revealing the existence of some trouble in quarters hitherto unsuspected. Were the complete history of the last fancy speculative movements of the last six months written out, people would be surprised at the number and standing of the individuals concerned, first or last, in the operations which centered round Carter and his confreres, and which were suddenly ended by the closing of the iron doors of the Custom House.—Boston Bulletin, May 4.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, May 6, 1867.

The inclement condition of the weather had a tendency to restrict out-door business to-day, which at best has been rather dull for some days past. We have but few round lot operations to record, while, generally speaking, prices have undergone no material change.

GRAIN—Nothing doing in Wheat. Corn is firm and in demand; sale of 1 car prime shelled at $1,13; and 150 bush common at $1,08. Oats in limited supply and firm with a good demand—may be quoted at 63 to 65—sale of 2 cars at 63. Rye is in demand at $1,60. Barley is quiet and unchanged.

FLOUR—Is firm with a moderate local demand and reduced stocks. We continue to quote at $14,50 to $15 for good to choice Spring Wheat; $16 to $17 for Winter Wheat, and $18 to $19 for fancy brands. Rye Flour is firm at $9,50 to $10.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet and unchanged at 9½c to 10c for Shoulders; 11¾ to 12¾ for Ribbed and Clear Sides; 14 for Plain Hams; 15¼ to 15½c for Plain Sugar Cured, and 16¼ to 16½c for Canvassed. Dried Beef, 22½c; Lard, 13c, and Mess Pork, $23@23,50.

BUTTER—Continues very dull, and the tendency is downward, though, as yet, prices are unchanged. Prime to choice Roll is still quoted at 25c to 30c.

EGGS—Quiet and unchanged—regular sales reported at 15c.

DRIED FRUIT—Is in rather better demand but unchanged—small sales at 8¾ to 9c for Apples, and 14c to 18c for Peaches—quarters and halves.

GREEN APPLES—The supply is well nigh exhausted, and the season is about over. We continue to quote at $4 to $5 per bbl—choice, in good condition, would doubtless command $6.

SEEDS—There is very little inquiry for Cloverseed, and the same is true of Timothy. Flaxseed continues scarce and in demand at $3.

SALT—Is quiet and unchanged. Allegheny river brands are quoted at $2,40, on track; $2,50, delivered, and the usual advance for small lots, in store.

POTATOES—Continue very dull, but for small lots prices remain unchanged—Peach Blows, in store, may be quoted at 90c per bushel.

HAY—Small sales of fair to prime Timothy at $25 to $28 per ton.

OIL—Lard Oil is steady, with regular sales at 87 to 90c for No. 2, and $1,08 to $1,10 for No. 1.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, May 6, 1867.

CRUDE—The market was a little firmer to-day owing to a slight improvement in the demand, but prices are without quotable change. Sales 3400 bbls, on the spot, at 6⅞; 400, 1000, 800, 3000, at 6¾; and 100 at 7. It was reported that a sale of several thousand barrels had been made during the day at 7, but we were unable to trace the rumor to any reliable foundation. Oil is still quoted at $2,50 at Oil City, which figure, according to the price, here leaves no margin whatever to parties legitimately engaged in the business, and as a consequence, a number of operators have already suspended operations for the present, and, unless there is a change for the better, and that, too, very soon, others will be forced to do likewise.

REFINED—But a single sale reported today, 500 bbls prime light straw to white, at 25½c. In the absence of sales, spot oil may be quoted at 20c, on cars here, for prime light straw to white, and 21c for standard white—add six cents to these figures, and you have the price delivered in Philadelphia. The demand has been somewhat restricted for several days past, the ruinously low prices to the contrary, notwithstanding, and those "outsiders" who "pitched in" pretty freely some two months since, will, if they have not already, come to the conclusion, that this speculating, especially in oil, is not what it's "cracked up to be."

ARRIVALS—The following arrivals of oil were reported to-day:

R. D. Clarke	1500	Fisher & Bro	7500
W. P. Logan	1500	J. Gallagher	1100
J. K. Barbour	50	Wm. M'Cutcheon	50

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—In the Cattle market the following were the receipts: Beeves, 5,401; sheep and lambs, 12,022; hogs, 11,260 head. The supply of beef cattle, though larger than last week, was not larger than actually wanted, there being a good demand from the butchers. The market assumed a firmer tone, though the prices, excepting for extra, show no material change; for extra sold at 18¼@18½c; prime do, at 17¾@18c; first quality, at 17½c; fair to good, 16½@18c; inferior, 15@15½c. The market for sheep and lambs, with light receipts, continued tolerably active and firm at previous prices; sheared sheep sold at 7¾@10½c; wooled, at 9@11c. Consequent on the marked falling off in receipts and the improvement in the quality of the offerings, a firmer feeling has pervaded the market, and prices advanced ¼c, the market closing firm at the improvement. About twelve car loads of hogs on sale at Fortieth street yards this morning were all sold at 8@8¼c for heavy corn fed, and 7¾c for light and medium.

RIVER NEWS.

The river was about stationary last evening with nine and a half feet in the channel by the Allegheny marks. Heavy rains are again reported at the headwaters of the Allegheny river, and another rise in that stream may be expected. The telegraph yesterday reported five and a half feet at Oil City.

The Echo left for Oil City last evening, and the Urilda will leave this evening. The Ida Rees No. 2 is due to-day. The Allegheny river boats appear to be doing a very fair business.

The Ingomar arrived from Matamoras with an excellent trip, and returned again yesterday afternoon. The owners of this boat are meeting with such good success that a change in her cabin is contemplated, by which she will be enabled to accommodate more passengers.

The river continues in excellent condition for running coal. The Sampson, Coal City and Antelope left on Sunday, and the Lion and Lioness were expected to leave yesterday. A model barge loaded with coal, in charge of the Antelope, sunk on Saturday night near the old Monongahela Bridge. It is said that she quietly filled with water and sunk for want of proper attention. The Grey Hound, noted the other day as having her tow aground at the head of Brunot, subsequently got all her barges off but two, and proceeded on down the river.

The Bellevernon raised steam and very quietly and unexpectedly started for Wheeling on Saturday night, where she will fill out, we suppose, with iron and nails for St. Louis.

There has been no arrivals or departures aside from the regular packets. The Argosy, from Cincinnati is due here to-day, and will return as usual on Wednesday. The Lorena, from St. Louis, and the Kenton, from New Orleans, are among the first boats due.

The Armenia, Captain A. C. McCallum, sr., is filling and will be ready to leave for St. Louis this evening, or to-morrow forenoon.

The Ida Rees, Captain Joe. Brown, is now in turn for Cincinnati and Louisville, and will be ready to take her departure in a day or two.

The Maggie Hays, Capt. D. L. Hendrickson, is next in turn for St. Louis after the Armenia.

The Secretary of the Treasury has just issued a circular to the collectors of customs, and supervising and local inspectors of steamboats, as follows:

It having been represented to this Department that tug-boats are frequently employed to tow vessels with passengers on board, and that, by crowding around the bows and sterns of steamers filled with passengers, they endanger the lives of the said passengers should the boilers of the tugs explode, you are hereby directed to carry into effect the provisions of the third section of the act of July 25, 1866, "to further provide for the safety of the lives of passengers on board of vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam," and apply the safety valves therein designated on the boilers of the tug-boats which shall be engaged in towing vessels usually carrying passengers, and of all tugs whose duties bring them into close proximity to such vessels, or to the wharves and docks of a city, so as to imperil life in case of explosion.

The Westmoreland passed Memphis on Wednesday last, en route for Cincinnati, with a good trip, including 1300 sacks of Coffee, and 140 hhds of Sugar.

In noticing the statements going the rounds that Missouri river pilots are making more money than the boats they are on, the St. Louis Democrat says: If that is so, it must occur to sensible minds that the Missouri river boats are miserably managed. We don't suppose the Missouri river pilots will receive more money than their contracts entitle them to. While a pilot's income for the year may be $3,000, the boat should realize for its owners $6,000, at least.

We stated the other day that Capt. Neal, of the Richmond, was not a resident of Louisville, to which the Democrat, of that city, replies as follows:

"Capt. Stutt Neal's residence is in this city; but, if we mistake not, both he and his brother were "brought up," and learned their trades in Pittsburgh. All their relations on the "male" side of the house were born and "brought up" about Pittsburgh. Besides, what difference does it make where they were born. They hadn't the "say so" about the matter."

This throws new light upon the enterprise of Louisville in fitting out the Richmond. Ignoring Pittsburgh manufacturers, they had to depend upon Pittsburgh brains. Well, we are now prepared to believe something good of the Richmond since a son of smoke has had a hand in the pie.

St. Louis papers say that the main difference between the Richmond and the Great Republic is that the former is puffed too much and the latter not enough.

Steamboatmen generally are actively preparing for the grand convention of Western boatmen, which meets in St. Louis on the 14th inst. A large concourse of experienced steamboatmen is expected to be in attendance.

Shievesport is the name commonly applied now-a-days to Shreveport, on Red River. There was once a very lively and interesting paper published at that place, called the Southwestern, but it is said one of the editors has quit writing and gone into the fruit business. When last heard from his stock consisted of one bunch of bananas. The other editor has gone into the manufacture of shoe blacking.

The quickest trip made between St. Louis and Fort Benton was by the Emilie in 1862, her time from port to port being only 32 days.

MEDICAL.

CONSUMPTION!

It would take a man a lifetime to read the tre tises that have been written upon this important subject, and if a sick man were to attemp it he would make himself worse by the reading, and die before he got half through. The symptoms of the disease are, hacking cough, expectoration of matter or pus, pain in one or bot lungs, chilliness, burning in the palms of th hands and soles of the feet, exhausting day night sweats, hectic fever, wasting of flesh o marasmus, sometimes expectoration of blood These are the usual outward symptoms, apparen not only to the observing physician, but to th patient's friends. There are, however, more important symptoms than these, which are only made manifest by auscultation and percussion terms which mean, in a medical sense, thumping and listening, and they are employed outwardly inorder to ascertain what is going on inside of the cavity of the chest. The signs o symptoms elicited in this way are almost sure demonstrate the true and exact condition of th respiratory organs. A perfect auscultator cannot fail in ascertaining whether the Lungs are acting naturally or not. Hence it is the bes method of examining the lungs. Their actua condition once discovered, the appropriat treatment is more rapidly arrived at, and every diseased part more completely under the influence of appropriate remedies. We have long been of the opinion that consumption or decay, or wasting of the bodily strength, was dependent on a depraved state of the blood, which carries, in its course, tuberculous matter, and deposits it in the lungs, or elsewhere in the body just as calculi or stone is deposited in the bladder, a small particle of which attracts othe particles, until it becomes of such offense to the natural functions as to bring on inflammatory action, which action, if it could, would carry i out of the system, and which could have been easily done in the beginning of such disease. Dr. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is a complete and perfect cure in the forming stage of lung disease. It acts on the very principle we have stated above, by enabling the securing or carrying off organs to do a double share of work. Waste and repair are easily comprehended, and if the worn out material be carried off, and the renewing material of a proper character, there must be health and ease, the contrary of sickness and dis-ease. In many cases of consumption which have become settled, Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup fails to cure, although it will do good in nearly all. He prepares a medicine called LUNG CURE OR PULMONARY RESTORATIVE, which is a great tonic, and strengthens and restores the parts to be renewed, while i dissolves and carries out from the body thos particles of worn out or extraneous matter, which only tend to clog or destroy it, by hindering the renewing material being deposited in its proper place.

PULMONARY CONSUMPTION, RESULTING FROM PLEURISY, CURED.

Statement of George Ford, carpenter, of No. 16 Sampson street, Allegheny City:

I took a violent attack of pleurisy, in May, 1866, which left me with a cough lasting all summer, wearing away my strength and gradually undermining my health. During this attack o pleurisy I had several physicians of the highes reputation in the city. After I had partially recovered from the pleurisy, I was advised to g into the country, which I did, and when there called in a doctor, who told me my left lung w affected, and that if something were not don soon I would die of CONSUMPTION. I lingered on from this time until about the middle o June, my cough and lung disease graduall growing worse, and I weaker every day, and a most despairing of ever getting well. In th state of despondency, and knowing the genera belief of the incurability of Consumption, an having heard of cures made by DR. KEYSE and seeing his advertisement in the newspaper I was induced in October last to call on the Doctor at his office, 120 Penn street, and had him examine my lungs with his "LUNG SOUND." H told me the upper lobe of my left lung was ve much diseased, but he thought with great ca and the perseverance in the use of his medicin I would get well. At the time I called on D Keyser my pulse was over one hundred and thi ty beats in a minute, and I was generally prostrated, and had to cough night and day. I commenced the Doctor's treatment in October, wit a feeble, broken constitution, and continued faithfully until the present time. The Doctor' medicines helped me from the very start, and could gradually feel myself getting stronge and my cough and expectoration lessening. have gained greatly in flesh, and consider my self well; all the rattling of my lung has ceased and my general health is in every way good. A my relatives and friends know of the advance stage of my disease and my extraordinary recovery. One of the medicines given me by Dr. Keyser was a medicine called LUNG CURE which I took in connection with the other treatment.

GEORGE FORD.

PITTSBURGH, March 30, 1867.

ANOTHER CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

STATEMENT OF JOHN G. WIGHAM, OF TURTLE CREEK, ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

I was discharged from the United States army in January, 1866, on account of a wound in the head, from a shell, and a disease which the army physicians pronounced CONSUMPTION. I had a terrible cough and fell away in strength and flesh and was unable to do anything. Shortly after my return from the army, I made application to a physician of my neighborhood and, afterwards, to another in Pittsburgh of high reputation, whose remedies I used faithfully for five months, without any benefit whatever, but rather grew worse, and wasted in flesh and strength every day. In August, 1866, my mother took me to DOCTOR KEYSER, of 120 Penn street, whose skill in such cases like mine had been highly spoken of and put myself under his treatment. The Doctor examined my lungs very carefully with his LUNG SOUND, and told me that my left lung was badly diseased at the upper part, but if I was careful he thought he could cure me by following his directions closely, which I did from that day to this. I gradually improved under Dr. Keyser's medicines from the first week I commenced to take them, and my general health has improved, and my chest, where it was sunken away, and where it pained me, has become full and strong and free from pain. I can now do a full day's work, and take great pleasure in giving my testimony in favor of Dr. Keyser's treatment and medicines.

JOHN G. WIGHAM,
Turtle Creek.

PITTSBURGH, April 11th, 1867.

A case of five years' standing cured by DR KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP:

DR. KEYSER:—My wife has been afflicted with a cough and difficulty of breathing for five or six years, which, for several years back, had gradually increased in violence. The complaint has been hereditary, and she had been treated by several physicians without any relief. In this state of her case I procured some of your PECTORAL COUGH SYRUP. I bought the first time a fifty cent bottle, which relieved her very much; I then called and got a dollar bottle, which cured her entirely, and she has now no trace of the former disease, except weakness. I would also state that I used the medicine myself to a cold and cough. The medicine cured me by taking one dose. I express my entire satisfaction with the medicine, and you are at liberty to publish this if you desire to do so.

WM. WILSON,
Alderman, Fifth Ward.

Our son, JAMES PAINTER, some three years ago was afflicted with consumption of the lungs, for which he was discharged from the army. He was examined by four army physicians, who all agreed that he must die with the disease. We brought him to Dr. KEYSER, 140 Wood street, (now 120 Penn street,) who, after sounding his lungs, commenced to treat him, and cured him sound and well. He is now well and has been so for the past three years. Others afflicted in like manner can likewise be cured.
